FACTS ABOUT BAYLOR

Judge Abner V. McCall
President

Baylor University, Texas' oldest university in continuous existence, enters its 125th year of service to higher education. The university was founded in 1845 at Independence, Texas, under a charter granted by the Republic of Texas. It moved to Waco in 1886.

Although Baylor has students of more than 30 denominations, including Catholics, Episcopalians, Methodists, and Presbyterians, the majority of its students are Baptists. Baylor facilities and all activities, including athletics, were racially integrated six years ago.

The university was named after Judge Robert Emmet Bledsoe Baylor, supreme court justice of the Republic of Texas, a Kentucky native who was a veteran of the War of 1812 and member of the Kentucky legislature before moving to Texas.

Co-founders with Judge Baylor were Rev. James E. Huckins, native of New Hampshire, who became principal of the first public school to be opened in Texas at Galveston, and Rev. William M. Tryon, native of New York City, who became chaplain of the Congress of the Republic of Texas.

The Baylor-Waco Foundation has provided significant financial aid for Baylor, and Urban Renewal has added to campus area and room for needed growth. Baylor has added over $16 millions in new buildings and facilities in a decade.

Moody Memorial Library, Sid Richardson Science Building, Marrs McLean Science Building, Hankamer School of Business Building, Russell Hall Dormitory for Women, Penland Hall Dormitory for Men and the Book Store Building are among the newer buildings recently completed.

Waco, city of 113,000, is situated near the geographical center of Texas. Huge new Lake Waco, completed and filled four years ago, has added to Waco and Baylor growth with greatly increased water supply.

In addition to the main campus in Waco, Baylor University also includes a College of Dentistry in Dallas and the Baylor-Army Hospital Administration Program at Fort Sam Houston in San Antonio. The Waco campus includes College of Arts and Science, Schools of Business, Law, Education, Music, Religion and Nursing. The Graduate School has branches on all three campuses.

There is a strong unit of the Air Force ROTC, training young officers for the service, active since World War II days.

Lighted 48,000-seat Baylor Stadium, built two miles from campus in 1950, is a sunken concrete bowl with playing surface 26 feet below surrounding ground level. There is exceptionally large surrounding parking area. Builders did not put in a track, bringing spectators much closer to the action. Curved sides give occupants of all seats an open view of the entire gridiron, making this one of the finest of all football stadiums. There's not a post in the place.

Basketball is played in 7,600-seat Heart O'Texas Coliseum, where parking also is more than ample. Baseball is played in 5,000-seat Dutton Park; tennis on new concrete courts on campus; track meets are in the 5,200-seat track stadium with eight-lane quarter-mile red cinder track; and the golf team uses Ridgewood Country Club.

Looking Ahead: Experience Deep, Depth Shallow

Architects plan, design and superintend construction. They are usually the first individuals consulted when the groundwork is being laid by an expanding organization. Primary plans are a must if the project succeeds.

Baylor's new football coach, Bill Beall, may soon become a candidate for the Waco Architect's guild. You see, he is faced with the task of developing the Bear's football program—called by many "so-so" in recent years—into a first-class operation. And he's attacking the issue like a professional . . . planning, designing and supervising.

His primary blueprints called for a change in Baylor's football image, a personality which has drawn much criticism from rival recruiters and sports writers in recent years.

Step one exhorted complete renovation of the athletic plant. Many people thought Beall was speaking to a blank wall when he talked about tearing out antique plumbing fixtures, painting the walls, installing new lockers and carpeting the dressing room floors. But in a matter of three months, any doubter could stop by Baylor Stadium and inspect one of the finest facilities in the south.

Step two designated a change in Baylor's uniform. Beall examined samples and color patterns from several sources and then decided on a green jersey with white numerals and gold pants with a green stripe.

And step three disclosed a new look for the Baylor Bear emblem. ("The one we had looked too much like Gentle Ben or Smokey the Bear . . . I wanted a mean looking one," he said.)

But Beall knows the thing that would help Baylor's image most is a winning team. And he thinks he can have this type of program in his first season as a head football coach.

Beall's optimism for a successful season is based upon experience in the first offensive and defensive units and the conversion in the spring of linebacker Randy Cooper to fullback.

Baylor returns ten of the 11 individuals responsible for the 3,486-yard (1700 rush, 1786 pass) total offense record a year ago, and nine defensive specialists. Fullback Pinkie Palmer and safety Jack Allen were lost via graduation and Cooper moved to the offensive backfield.

Richard Stevens, a 6-5, 235-pound tackle from Dublin, is the stalwart of the offensive line. He has made several pre-season All-America teams and was chosen to every All-SWC team selected last year. Several professional scouts have rated him the best blocking lineman in the country and a "can't miss" prospect.

Center Calvin Hunt was selected to several All-SWC teams last year, his first season at the position. He lettered at offensive tackle his sophomore season, switched to the pivot the following spring, and earned a reputation as one of the league's best. The Edna native stands 6-4 and weighs 225.

Tackle John Kelly (6-4, 225) and guards Richard Dennard (6-1, 225) and Bob Stephenson (6-3, 215) complete the offensive interior. Kelly is often labeled Mr. Consistency by the staff, and Dennard and Stephenson are considered excellent lead blockers. Lanus Treadwell (6-4, 200) and Jessie Young (6-8, 250) are quality replacements.

Split-end Mark Lewis (6-1½, 189) and tight ends Ted Gillum (6-6, 213) or Derek Davis (6-2, 190) will handle the flanks. Lewis is the squad's best combination receiver-blocker, he caught 20 passes for 299 yards and three touchdowns last year. Gillum has the blocking edge for the starting assignment, but Davis has more speed and receiving ability.

Quarterback Steve Stuart (6-2½, 195) became the Bears' No. 1 signal caller in the fourth game last year. He completed 95 of 216 passes for 1,320 yards and seven touchdowns; the fifth best totals in a season by a Baylor passer and the second best year's performance by a Bear sophomore. He'll receive support from junior Laney Cook (6-3, 188) and sophomore Si Southall (6-1, 195).

Gene Rogers (5-11, 185) developed into one of the league's top running backs in the Bears' last five games a year ago. He earned Associated Press SWC Back of the Week honors for his Texas Tech and Rice performances and was Baylor's second leading ground gainer with 763 yards in 160 carries for a 4.8 average. Gordon Utgard (5-11, 185), a top kickoff return man, will see considerable action.

Dependable Jerry Smith (6-½, 175) and Don Huggins (5-10, 163) are quality receivers at flanker. Smith caught 40 passes for 509 yards last year and Huggins was the team's second leading receiver with 31 receptions for 435 yards.

Fullback was the question mark before spring practice began. There were no clear-cut candidates to replace Palmer, who has carried the football more than any other Baylor athlete (444) and holds the school's season rushing mark with 818 yards.

But then came Cooper (6-½, 210), who earned his room and board at linebacker last season. The former Dallas Woodrow Wilson star picked-up the pace he had developed in prep competition and became the Bears leading ground-gainer in spring practice averaging 4.5 yards per carry. His defensive teammates classified him in the strong, bruising category and his coaches praised his blocking ability. He'll receive ample support from Jerral Landers (5-11, 196), who has been beset by injuries the past two years.

Defensively, the Baylor theory will follow the ideologies Beall developed at LSU. But possibly the big difference in the defense will be a new sense of pride Beall has developed in the group. "They now feel they're playing defense because they can help the team . . . not because they can't play offense," he said.

Ends David Jones (6-4, 210), Dennis Watson (6-2, 210) and Roy McDearmon (6-4, 233) are solid contain-men. And sophomore Glen Chmelar (6-4, 210) showed much progress in the spring.

Tommy Reaux (6-1, 220) and Walter Groth (6-5, 240) both started at tackle last year. Reaux, who received All-SWC mention, is blessed with quickness and savvy and Groth depends on size and strength. Sophomore Gary Sutton (6-1, 210) and senior Earl Maxfield (6-3, 237) should add depth.

Trent Phipps (5-11½, 205) will retain his position at middle-guard and Bobby Henderson (6-2, 210) should see considerable action. Both men are junior lettermen.

Linebacking should be an asset for the Bears with Brian Blessing (6-1, 205) and Gilbert Beall (6-1, 205 and no relation to the coach). Blessing is considered one of the prize defensive men in the conference, and Beall, who shared "most improved" spring practice awards with Cooper, demonstrated much ability to the coaching staff. Ray Penn (5-11, 197) and Wayne Roberds (6-1, 218) add support.

Dennis Whitley (6-1, 200) and Tommy Bambrick (6-2, 190) will battle for the "Bushwhacker" or rover assignment. Ed Marsh (6-1, 196) and Russell Serafin (6-0, 185) have proven their abilities in the secondary at halfback. Mike Beane (6-1½, 190) or John Miller (5-11½, 183) will complete the defensive backfield at safety. Speedy sophomore Willie Stewart (5-10, 170) is a valuable reserve, he can play each position in the secondary.

Baylor's kicking game should be strong with Marsh and Terry Cozby. Marsh punted 50 times for a 40.6 yard average last year and Cozby, a placement specialist, made good 18 of 22 extra points and five of nine field goals.

Although Baylor is blessed with lettermen at every starting position, its main problem will be lack of experience in the second units. Untried sophomores and redshirts man these positions and their development and ability to compete against high quality competition is the key to the Bears success.

Beall and his staff are planning, designing and supervising their construction. And the final results could earn him membership in the architect's guild.

Beall's Analysis of Each Position

Quarterback: "Steve Stuart has experience and a good, strong arm. He's not the exceptional kid right now but he has a lot of potential. If he doesn't get hurt and if he continues to improve like he did in the spring . . . well, if someone beats him out, you'll know that we are in real good shape. Laney Cook's an athlete. He's the best runner and his passing is showing improvement. Si Southall has an exceptionally strong arm. He has tremendous potential. We're asking more of the quarterbacks than they've been asking here before. They run more than Baylor quarterbacks have been running."

Running Back: "Finding Randy Cooper was one of the best things to come out of the spring. He can handle the fullback spot for us. He's rugged, not real elusive, but stomps good. (Tailback Gene) Rogers is tough as a hickory nut. He'll give you that extra effort and comes up with the big play. If (Gordon) Utgard, (Terry) Jackson and (Jerral) Landers can pick up the slack behind them, we could have a pretty good offensive team. I want to run the football but the durability of our running backs will be the key."

Receivers: "We're o.k. on wide people with (Jerry) Smith, (Derek) Davis, (Don) Huggins, (Mark) Lewis, (Rollin) Hunter and (Ted) Gillum. Lewis will work both at split end and tight end. Gillum is the best blocker and all are capable receivers. One problem we sure don't have is finding someone to catch the football."

Offensive Line: "Lanus Treadwell stepped in well in the spring and demonstrated he could help us. The top ones are (Richard) Stevens and (Calvin) Hunt. They're both good ones and could play for anybody. (Richard) Dennard, (Bob) Stephenson and (John) Kelly also are two year starters. We are deep in experience but lack depth. Jesse Young and Jim Sartain should help."

Secondary: "Ed Marsh is a good one. He spent most of his time at quarterback in the spring . . . and he can help us there if we need him . . . he's a competitor. (Russell) Serafin is experienced and should capably handle his area. (Mike) Beane and (John) Miller developed rapidly in the spring and should have a good battle at safety."

Linebackers: "Brian Blessing can hold his own with any linebacker I've been associated with. He's one of the best things I saw in the spring. He gets there in a hurry and he hits people. Right now he and Gilbert Beall are No. 1 and (Ray) Penn and (Wayne) Roberds give us good backup support. Tommy Bambrick and (Dennis) Whitley have the ability to be good bushwhackers."

Defensive Line: "Tommy Reaux has the quickness and he's strong enough. Trent Phipps is very consistent. But I believe we're going to get some help out of (Earl) Maxfield. He's behind (Walter) Groth right now but they could have a pretty good battle there. We need depth."

Defensive Ends: "I'm extra well pleased with our two starters, no question about that. Dennis Watson is a sticker . . . I've been around some of those, enough to classify them. David Jones has ability and he's big enough. (Roy) McDearmon and Glen Chmelar showed promise. Some of the hardest people to find are those defensive wide people. They're put in more binds than anybody."

Overall Offensive: "Experience will be our biggest asset offensively. We return the line intact and three backfield starters from the unit that set a school total offense record (1700 rush, 1786 pass, 2486 yards). Our passing game should be improved with the return of our quarterback and primary receivers and the running game should be competitive. The line could be one of the most outstanding in the conference."

Overall Defense: "Defensively, experience should again be valuable with ten returning starters. We have changed our defensive theory from what Baylor used last year . . . we'll employ a similar five-man front, but the main difference will be in our secondary. We'll use a four-deep. But the biggest difference, without question, is that the kids on defense feel for the first time that they're not there because maybe someone felt they couldn't make the offensive team. They feel like they're there because that's where they can help the team most."

Problems: "Our main problem is overall depth. We may use some athletes both ways if the situation presents itself, but we hope to develop some top reserves. There's one thing you can count on, there won't be anyone sitting on the bench who can help us. We'll be playing our best football players."

On January 17, 1950, Little Joe and Josephine again produced twins, Barney and Bailey, and they survived the hybernation period.

Following Barney and Bailey have been Nip and Tuck (1953), Pancho, Rusty and Dusty (1955), Ruff and Tuff (1958), Judge, Countess and Dutchess (1961), Linus and Lucy (1966) and John the Baptist Bear (1967).

Dutchess was killed in a kidnap attempt by a rival SWC school in 1963. Judge, Countess, Linus, Lucy and John the Baptist Bear actively represent Baylor. The others are dead or have been given to zoos and high schools.

Green - Gold Colors

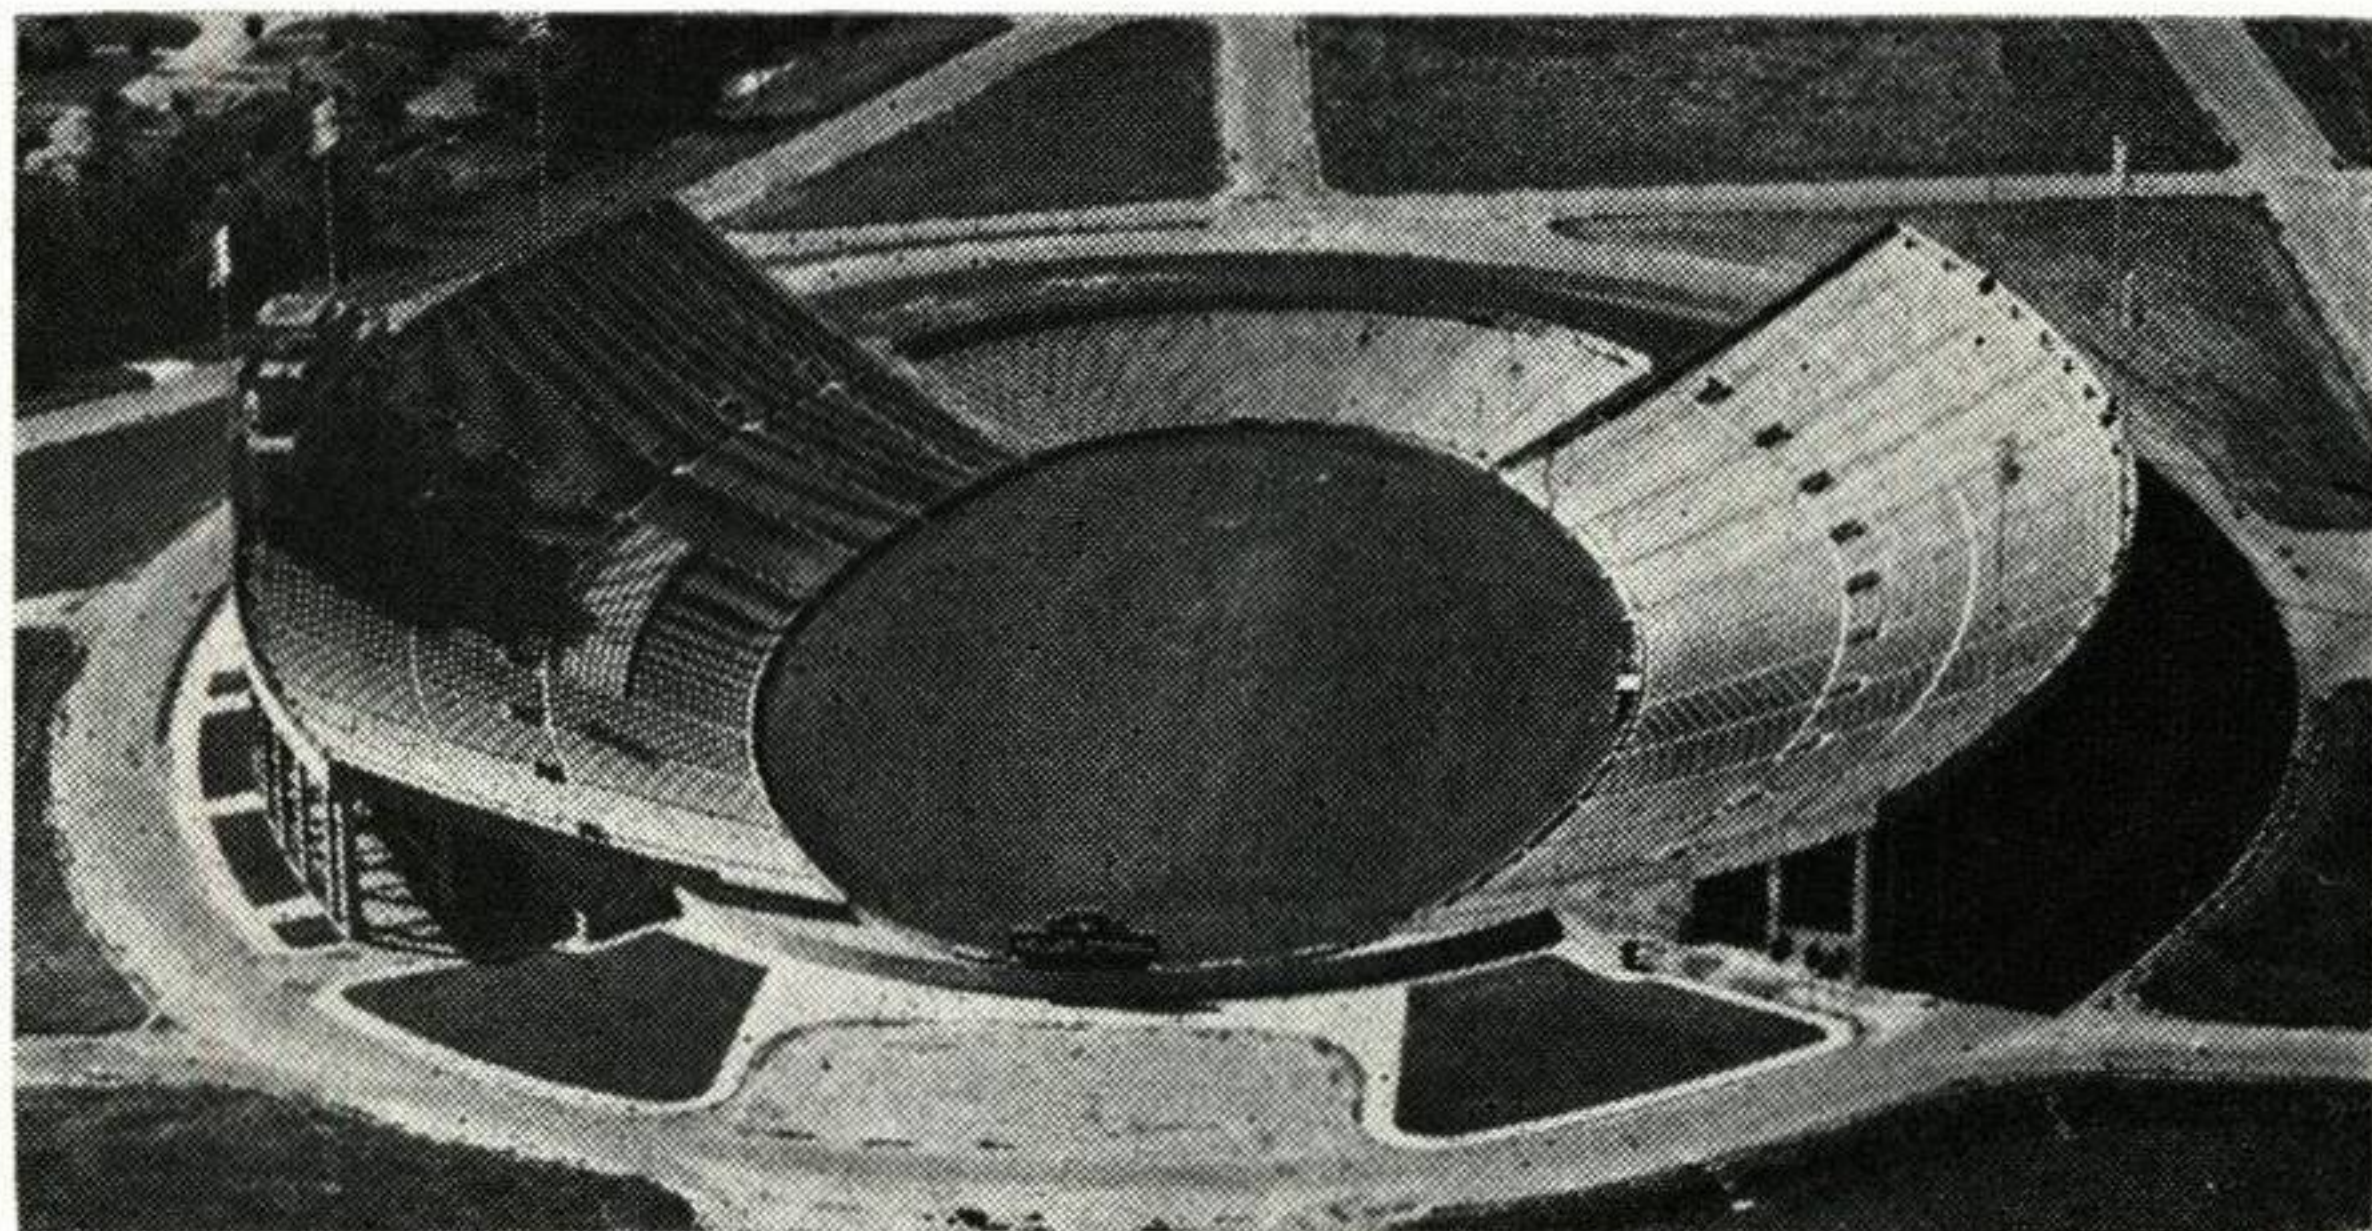

A committee was formed in 1897 to select the official colors of Baylor University.

Baylor and Add-Ran (TCU), both located in Waco, were scheduled to debate in Bryan. On the train trip, a Mrs. Russell and Charles Ingram, both members of the selection committee, admired the dandelions blooming beside the railroad tracks.

They were impressed by the beauty of the yellow against the green background, but both insisted it would have been a more beautiful sight if the flowers had been gold.

And as a result, the committee accepted their recommendation of green and gold.

These colors were first used officially by the Baylor Glee Club in a concert at Lorena, Texas, Friday, March 25, 1897.

Baylor Stadium

Baylor Stadium has proved to be friendly home grounds for the Bears since its beginning in 1950.

The Bears won the inaugural game September 30, 1950, over Houston, 34-7. And in the past 19 years, Baylor has won 53, lost 36 and had one tie (10-10 Arkansas, 1967) in the stadium. That's a .589 winning percentage.

Baylor has never lost all of its home games in a season, has been limited to one win three times, and has experienced only five losing seasons.

Baylor Stadium is a sunken concrete bowl with a playing surface 26 feet below the surrounding ground level. Its sides are curved and provide all spectators an open view of the entire football field.

Lights, yielding 384,000 watts on the playing surface, were added in 1954. They are placed on top of the plant and there's not an obstruction post anywhere.

Initial cost of the 48,000-seat structure was $1,600,000.

Baylor Hall of Fame

Baylor's Hall of Fame was organized in 1960 to recognize and honor persons whose participation and contributions enriched and strengthened the university athletic program.

All athletes are required to wait 10 years after they complete their eligibility before they qualify for the honor. Baylor's distinguished list has grown to 30.

BILL BEALL

HEAD FOOTBALL COACH

There's a sign on the wall behind Bill Beall's big desk that reads like this:

"Don't look back unless you are going in that direction."

And that sentence, painted in gold letters on a green background, has been more than a motto around the Baylor Athletic Department since December 19, 1968, the date Beall became the Bears' 19th football coach.

It's been a way of life.

You see, in a matter of months, Beall has changed Baylor's often criticized financial cutback image to a first-class reality. He hasn't done this with words, many people in new capacities make promises they don't make good, he's used physical evidences.

For instance, he took one look at Baylor's facilities in December and issued an order for complete renovation before spring practice began in April.

Poor facilities were detrimental to the Bears' recruiting program, Beall and his staff tried to avoid showing recruits the outdated fixtures. He set his masterplan in motion, new plumbing, paint everywhere and wall-to-wall green carpet. And within three months, Baylor's facilities were labled by anyone who saw them "as good as any in the country."

Beall also made two changes to improve the Bears' athletic image.

One modification involved a new-look in the "Gentle Ben or Smokey the Bear" emblem. Beall had artists develop an open mouthed, teeth shining, ferocious bruin, one that would emphasize the FIGHTING in the Fighting Baylor Bear slogan.

And the other alteration was made in the uniform. The Bears' new threads include green jerseys with white numerals and gold pants with green stripes.

But possibly the most noticeable difference in the Baylor camp is the winning attitudes Beall has developed within his staff and the athletes. These men have pride, the essential ingredient in any successful program.

Beall's ability to get things done and motivate individuals around him are the principle reasons for this energetic and consecrated unity from which a foundation for a winning program is being built.

Although the progress Beall has made at Baylor has appalled many people, his former boss at LSU, Charlie McClendon, expected it. In fact, he would have probably been disappointed in his pupil's first attempt to be a competitive collegiate coach if he hadn't established a progressive program.

"He has every quality to make an outstanding head coach" McClendon once said. "Whatever it takes to get the job done—effort or time—Bill will do it. One thing that always impressed me about him was his ability to get things over to the players he was coaching. You know, it doesn't help to know your subject if you can't get the message across. Bill could. He has an outstanding mind . . . very inventive, original."

Beall's accomplishments at LSU were widely reputed throughout the nation. He is the man who developed and coordinated the Tigers' growling defense.

His secondaries were effective against some of the best passing quarterbacks in the history of collegiate football. And all of his students were sure tacklers.

Beall is confident he can establish a high level program at Baylor similar to the one he helped build at LSU. "It's the largest Baptist institution in the country and as such attracts a number of Baptist athletes," Beall said. "But don't get me wrong, we won't discriminate against other denominations . . . We're not going to get rid of the Christians here by any means. We're just looking for hitting Christians."

He is no stranger to Waco and Central Texas, or the Southwest Conference. Beall recruited the area for Rice during his seven years on the Owl Staff under Jess Neely (1955-'61). While at the Houston school, the Owls won a conference title (1957) and went to three bowl games.

He moved to LSU in 1962 and served as the chief defensive assistant until he signed his five-year Baylor contract. The Tigers won 55, lost 20 and went to bowl games six of Beall's seven years on the staff.

Included in these figures were only three losses in 21 games against SWC members and Cotton Bowl victories over Texas and Arkansas, stopping win streaks that had gained national prominence.

And, of course, the prime weapons used by the Tigers were the defensive plans Beall helped fashion.

Beall, a native of Osceola, Arkansas, was a halfback at Arkansas State until World War II interrupted his athletic career. He was a naval aviator and served on the Lexington ("The new Lexington, not the old one," he said).

Following the war, he resumed his education at Memphis State but a knee injury almost totally ended his football career. He received a B.S. degree from Memphis State in 1950 and earned a master's degree at Ole Miss in 1951.

Beall also coached on the prep level at Horn Lake, Mississippi, High (1949) and Osceola (1950-54). His first collegiate position was at Arkansas State (spring, 1955).

He and his wife, Doris, are the parents of three sons: Bill and Phil, student-athletes at Baylor; Charlie, an eleventh grader; and one daughter, Belinda, an eighth grader.

Beall is a Presbyterian and served as director of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes at LSU. He also was the team's academic advisor.

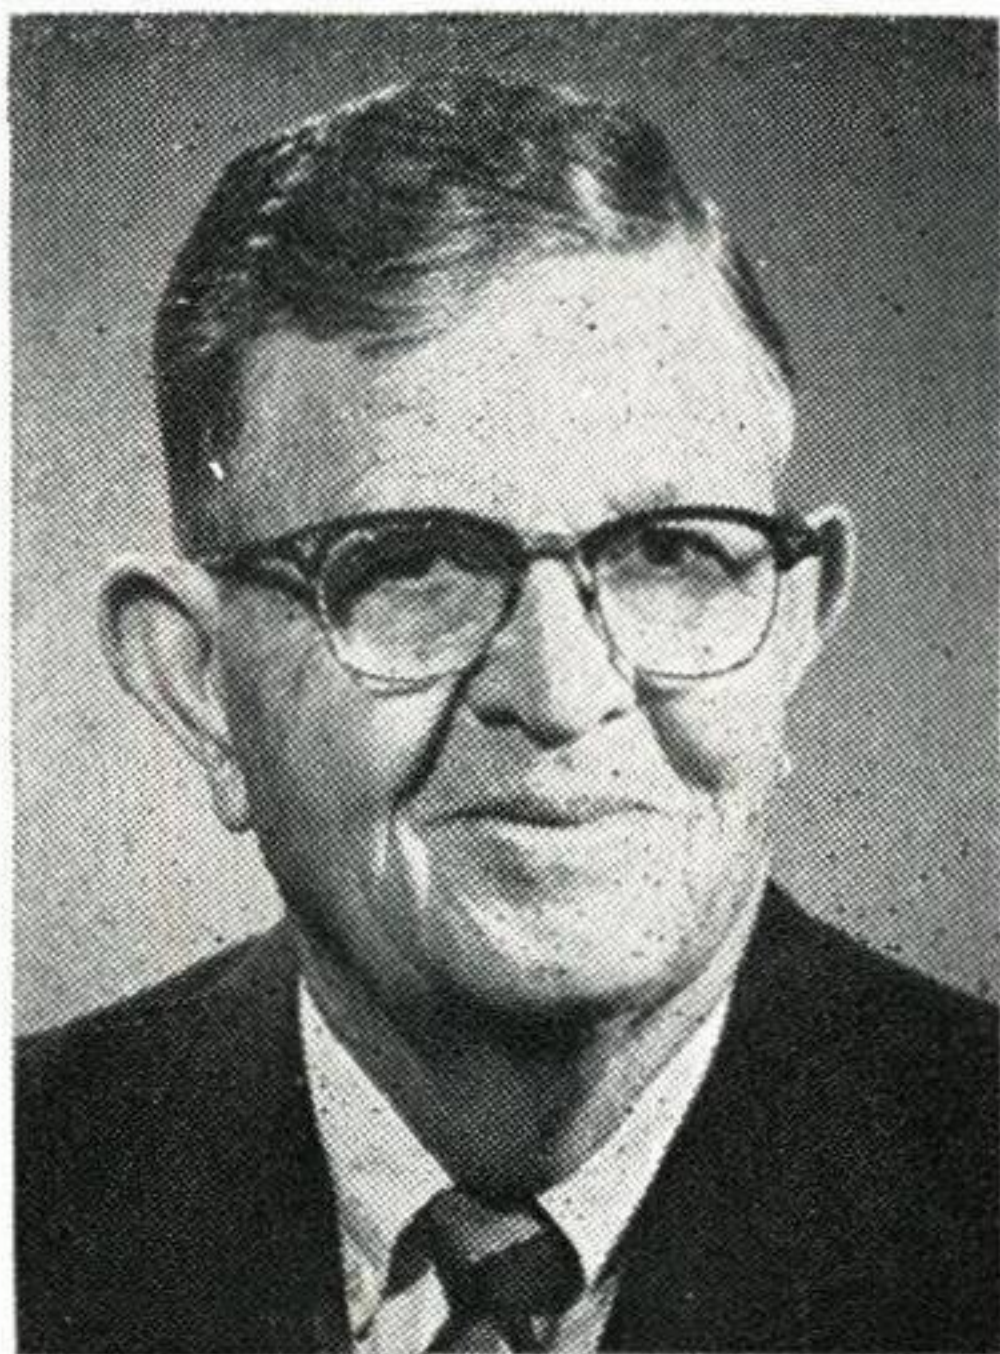

His hobbies are anything that deal with "kid programs," particularly little league baseball and football.

Beall is confident he can build a winner at Baylor. He's never been associated with anything but success.

And he doesn't look back—Beall's not going in that direction.

BILL HENDERSON

Athletic Director

His name is R. E. Henderson. But the man, who is one of the best-liked and most respected in the Southwest Conference, is known by almost everyone as "Mr. Bill."

He is the foremost authority on Baylor athletics and is always a source of reference for people seeking information about the history of the conference.

Henderson, who has served the Athletic Department in every capacity since leaving Waco High in 1936, has capably taken over the reins of the Athletic Department.

He originally signed his Baylor contract as assistant football coach, freshman basketball coach, track coach and instructor of government.

Henderson worked with the line and scouted until 1958, except for a stint in the Army Air Force from April, 1943 to January, 1945. He was named varsity Basketball Coach in 1943 and earned national fame for Baylor and himself in the eighteen varsity seasons at the helm. His 1948 Bears advanced to the finals of the NCAA tournament (no other conference school has reached the finals), and he won four SWC championships.

In 1960-61, his final season, he was President of the National Basketball Coaches Association. He also held previous offices in the organization as vice-president, secretary and treasurer.

Upon his retirement from active coaching, he assumed the pressing administrative duties of assistant athletic director and business manager and held these positions until he became the department head in November. He was selected to the Baylor Hall of Fame in 1966.

His coaching career began at Temple High School in 1925, where he was football line coach. He was promoted to head football coach and named head basketball coach in 1926 and tutored All-America Barton "Botchey" Koch (Baylor) and Sammy Baugh (T.C.U.). Henderson changed Baugh from end to quarterback.

He moved to Waco High School in 1931 as head basketball coach and assistant football coach, serving under the immortal Paul Tyson; and joined the Baylor staff in 1936.

Henderson also was a successful athlete. He was a three sport letterman at Wichita Falls High School one year and Ballinger High School twice.

Upon graduation, he enrolled at Howard Payne College and earned four letters in football (end), basketball (guard) and baseball (outfielder), and captained all three sports his senior season.

He played on the first Texas team to use the spread formation (1919) and helped the Yellow Jackets defeat A&M on Kyle Field once and T.C.U. twice, catching passes for all Howard Payne's touchdowns in the second game with the Frogs. His collegiate coach was Arnold Kirkpatrick, who was a standout quarterback at Texas.

Henderson received the AB Degree in 1925 and did additional work at the University of Michigan and the University of Texas.

He was born September 30, 1900, at Glen Cove, Texas (Coleman County) and married Anna Gibson in June, 1928. They have a son, Bill, a prominent Waco pathologist, a daughter, Mrs. Tom Echols, and six grandchildren.

CATFISH SMITH

Promotion Director

It's not unusual to travel anywhere in Texas and find people who know M. A. Smith.

And the unique thing is that each person will have his favorite athletic story about the man called Catfish.

He begins his second year in a dual role as promotion director and executive vice-president of the Baylor Bear Club, athletic boosters organization.

Smith was Baylor's freshman coach for nine seasons, establishing a 25-20 record.

He coached on the high school level at Carey, Borger, Longview and Mt. Vernon and established a 30-2 record as head coach at East Texas State. Smith won a state basketball championship at Carey and his Mt. Vernon teams won six district titles in seven years, winning 26 straight over a three year period. He was chosen Coach of the Year by the Texas Sports Writers Association in 1953.

Smith is a past president of the Texas High School Coaches Association.

He and his wife, Dot, have two sons, Ronnie (21), a Baylor student, and Jimmy (16). Smith is a native of Mt. Pleasant.

DAN McLEOD

Equipment Supervisor

Newest member of the athletic department staff is Dan McLeod, who has assumed the important duties of equipment supervisor.

McLeod, who also will have coaching responsibilities, came to Baylor July 1 from Waco's University High School, where he had served as head baseball and assistant football coach the past eight years.

His coaching career began at Pecos High School in 1954. He was an assistant there for five years and then accepted a similar position at Corsicana High School in 1959. He moved to Waco two years later.

He earned a B.S. degree from Midwestern University in 1952 and played halfback under Coach Dixie White.

Following his graduation, he spent two years in the Army Special Forces and played football at Ft. Hood.

He and his wife, Jo Ann, have three sons, Danny (16), Leslie (14) and Mark (11).

DAVID HUFFSTETLER

Head Trainer

David Huffstetler is rapidly gaining a reputation as one of the finest athletic trainers in the Southwest.

He joined the Baylor staff July 1, 1968.

Huffstetler came to Baylor highly recommended from Eastern Kentucky University, where he served as trainer for three years.

His journey into athletic training was partially a result of misfortune. As a wingback at Maryville (Tenn.) College in 1960, he was forced to cut short his playing career because of injuries suffered in an automobile accident.

He volunteered to serve as a student trainer at Maryville in 1962-63 and was named head trainer there in 1964 while obtaining the B.S. degree in health and physical education.

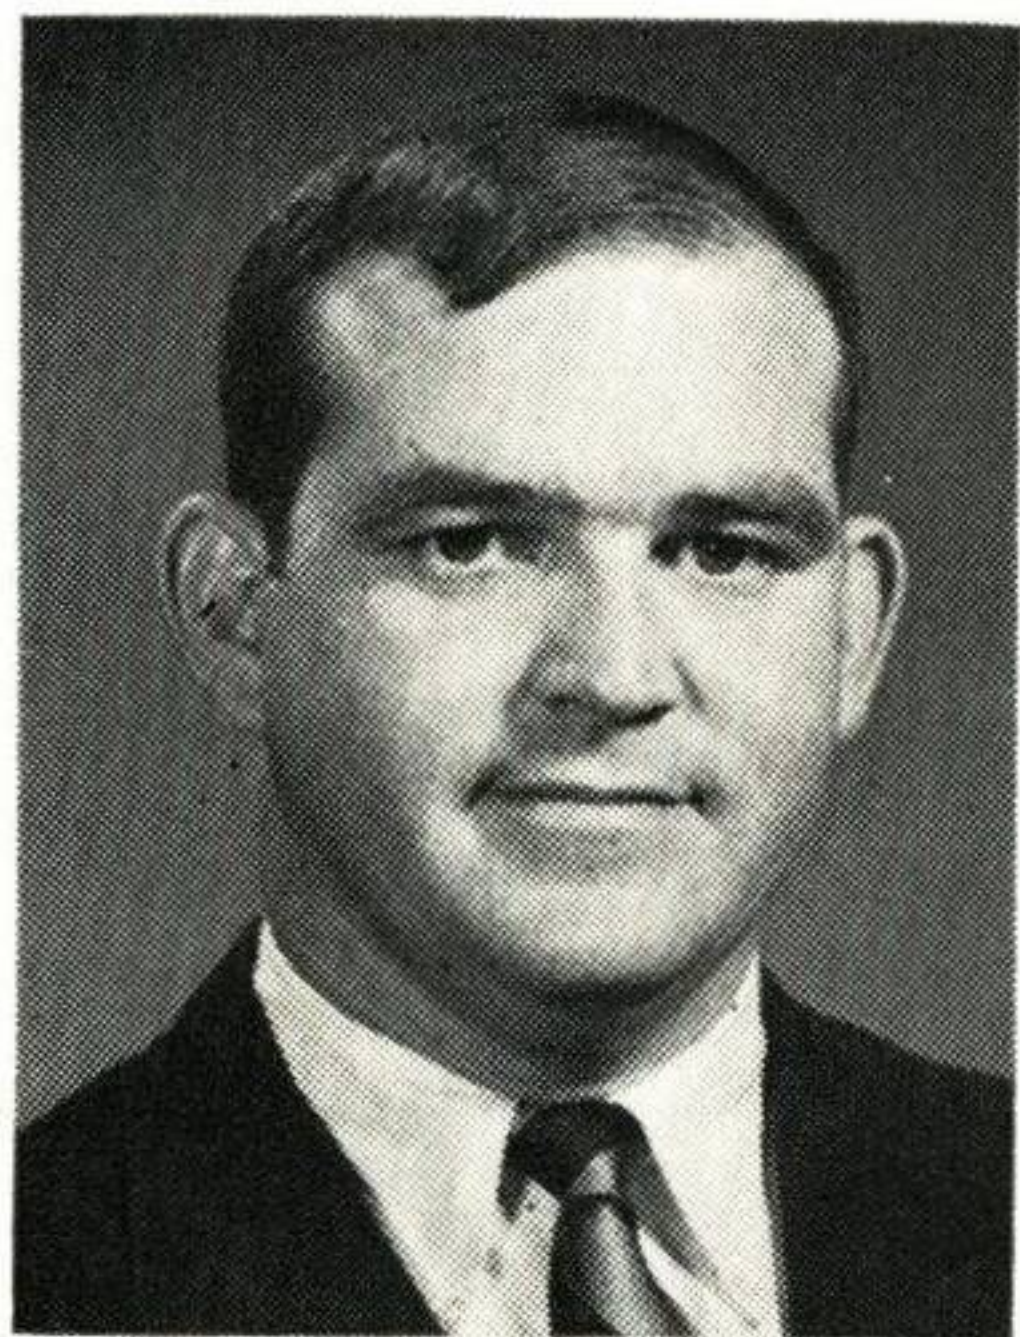

Huffstetler entered the University of Indiana graduate school in 1965 and earned the M.S. degree in athletic training.

His interest in athletics began at Friendsville High School, where he was an All-Blount County football player. He also participated in basketball and baseball.

He holds professional affiliations with the National Athletic Trainers Association and the American College of Sports Medicine.

DAVID CAWOOD

Sports Information Director

David Cawood begins his second year as sports information director.

Cawood came to Baylor April 1, 1968, from Eastern Kentucky University, where he was sports information director and an administrative assistant in the office of public affairs.

His athletic participation was limited to high school, he was twice an All-Southeastern Kentucky center and earned all-state recognition at Harlan High School.

He received a B.B.A. degree from Baylor in 1965 majoring in business and journalism. While an undergraduate, he served three years under the late George Wright in the sports news department. He also wrote for The Baylor Lariat, and the campus magazine, The Iscani.

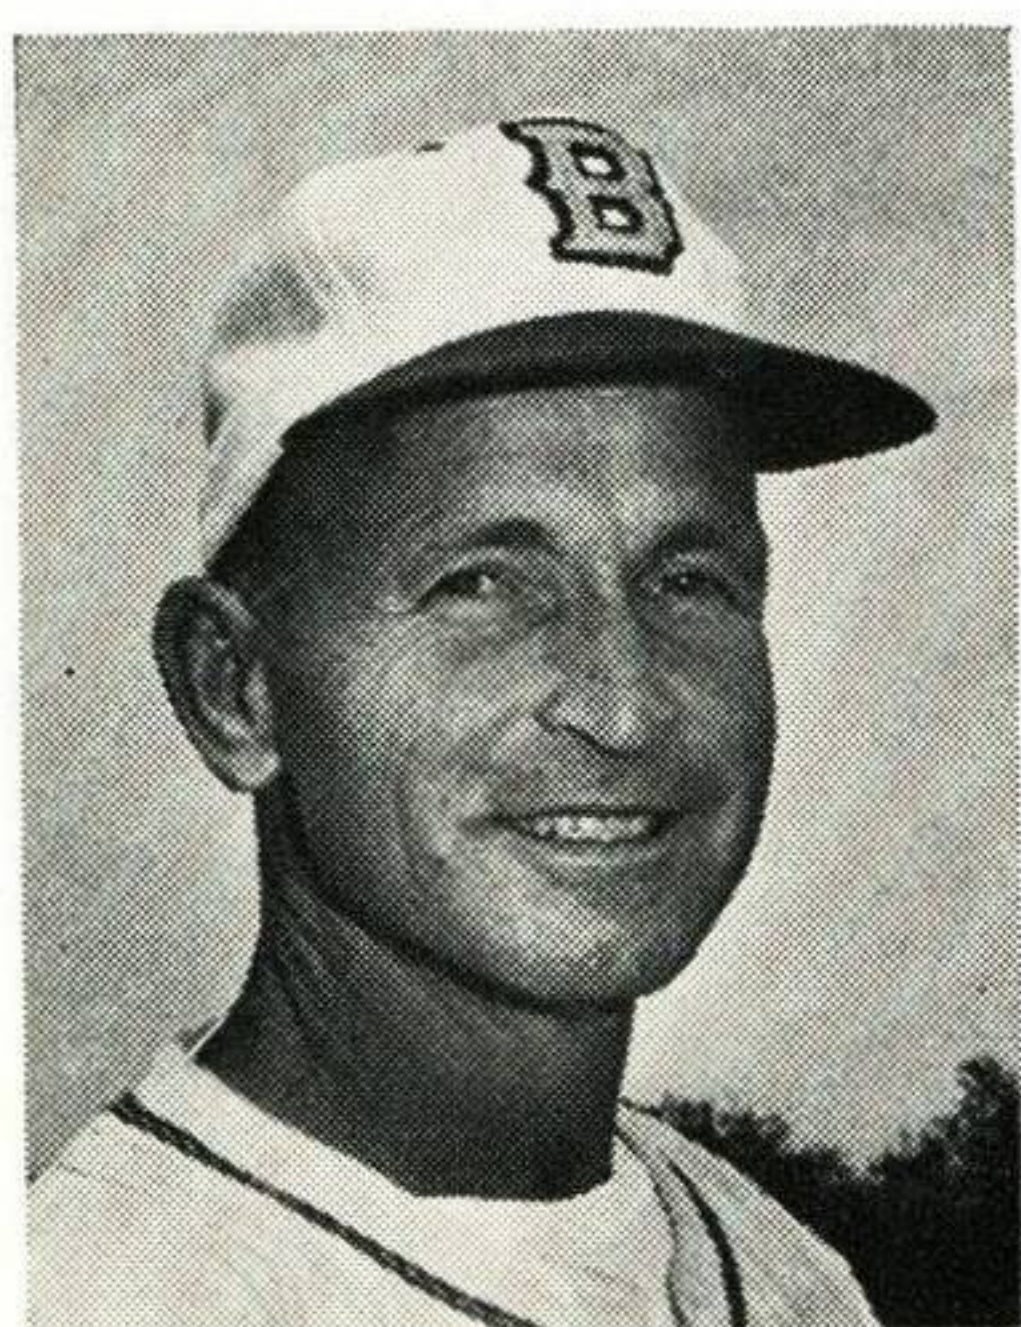

Cawood held campus memberships in Sigma Delta Chi and Alpha Kappa Psi, and was a Dallas Press Club scholarship recipient.

He became sports publicist at Morehead (Ky.) State University upon graduation and then moved to Eastern Kentucky University in 1967.

Cawood holds professional memberships with the College Sports Information Directors of America, Texas Sports Writers Association, Sigma Delta Chi and Alpha Kappa Psi.

He is married to the former Sheila Coldiron, also a native of Harlan.

Part Three Meet The Baylor Bears

RICHARD STEVENS

Candidate For All-America

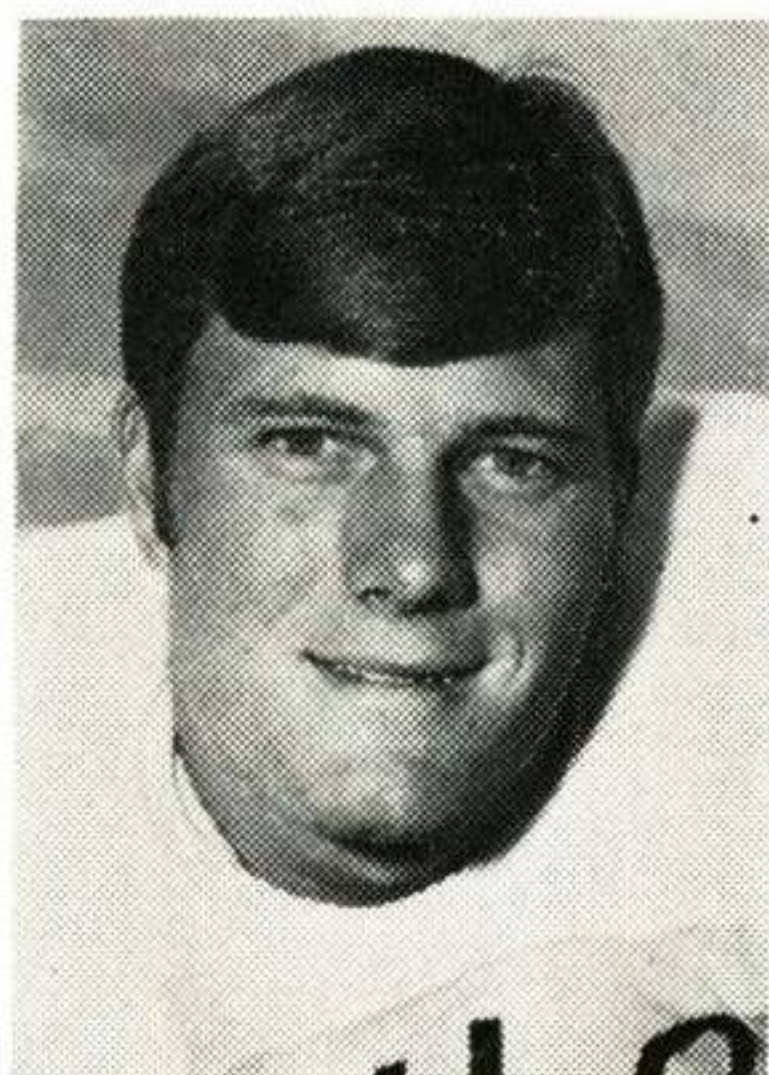

Barton Koch. Russell Blailock. Bob Nelson. Bill Glass. James Ray Smith. Ken Casner. Bill Athey. Jack Sisco.

These are the names of some of the most outstanding linemen to ever wear the Green and Gold.

But many long-time observers of Baylor football insist a new name should be included in this list. In fact, they say Richard Stevens, a 6-5, 235-pound two-year letterman may be the best offensive lineman to ever represent the Baptists.

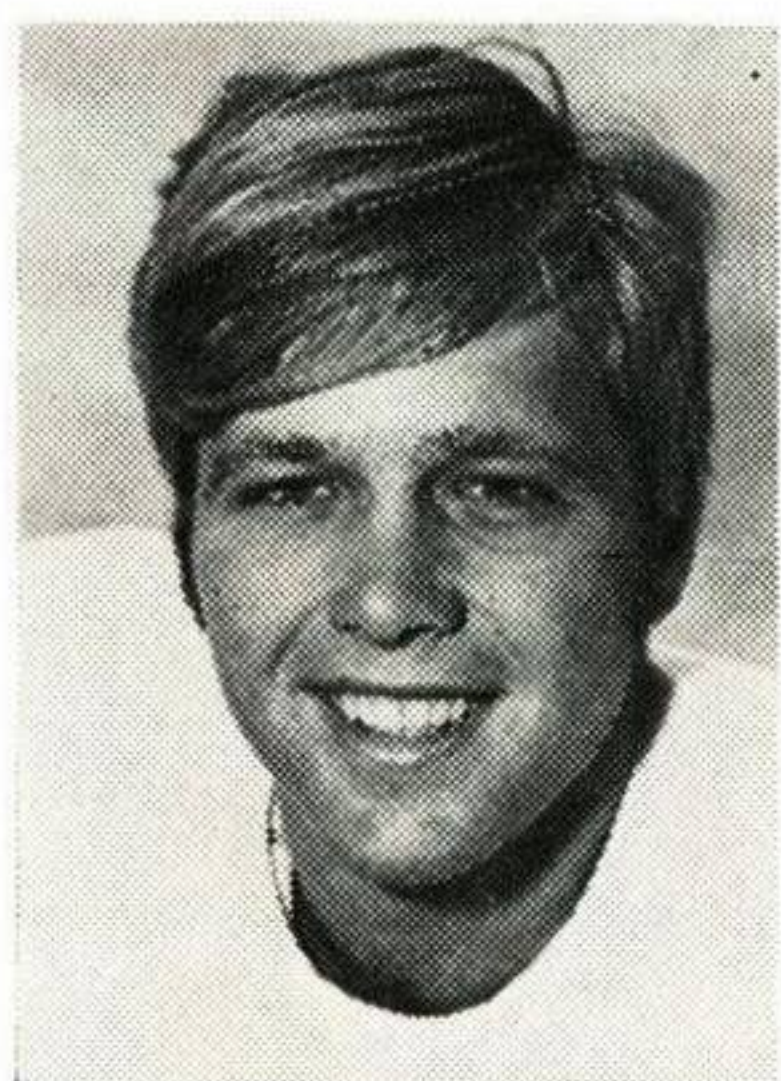

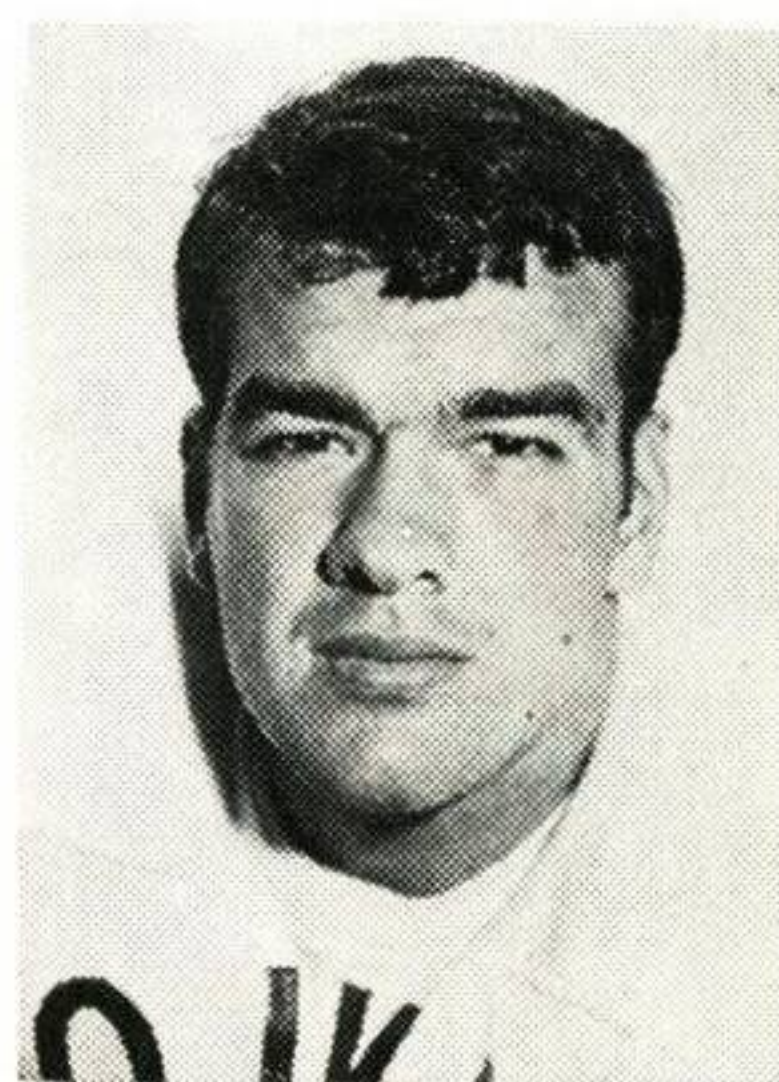

Consider the appraisal of Dave Campbell, immediate past-president of the Football Writers of America and sports editor of the Waco Tribune-Herald. "Stevens is by far Baylor's best blocker in years and the best offensive lineman I saw last year."
